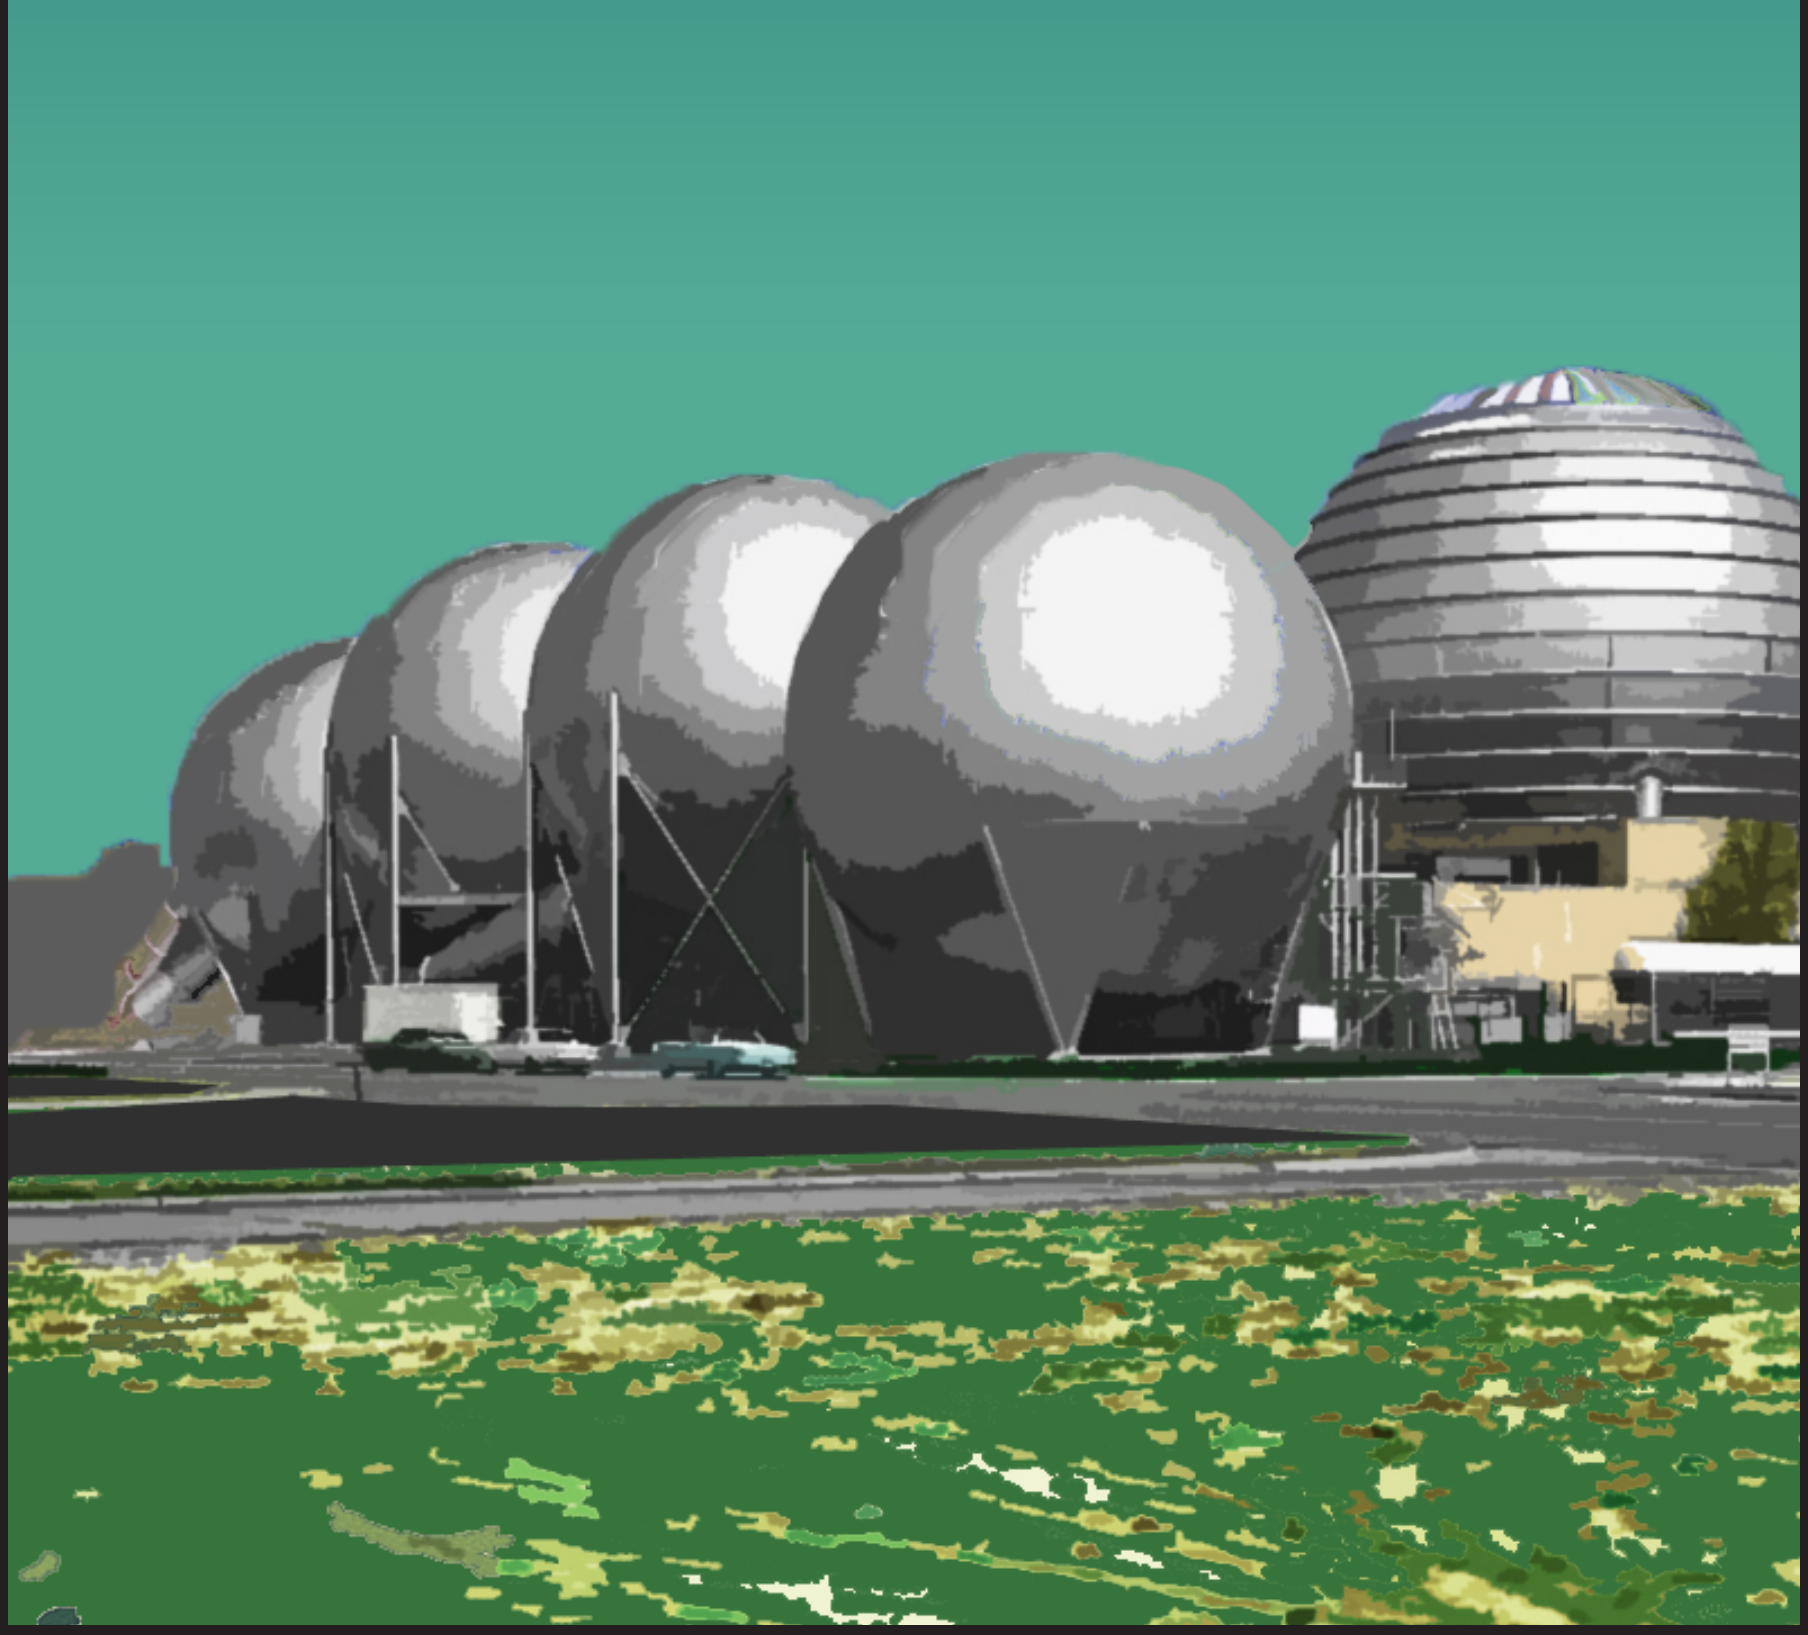
VA LaRC



The DEVELOP Program began in the summer of 1998 when three student interns at NASA Langley Research Center co-authored a research paper titled "The Practical Applications of Remote Sensing" (Bauer et al., 1998). DEVELOP was established with the focus of raising awareness and demonstrating the practical benefits of NASA Earth observations to help state and local community leaders address environmental and policy issues.